Outreach #1 Variable Y

People think that variables are about sounding personal, they are not, Variables are about sounding accurate.
Accuracy is what gets replies from business owners.

Keep it short, keep it high signal, and use only these variables.

- First name
- Company name
- Website
- Page
- Website problem - websites is what we're using
- Recognisable reason
- Consequence mechanics
- Subject line

Rule
Anything you say must be observable or conditional - observable means the prospect can verify publicly, conditional means you can describe a behaviour pattern without claiming you've measured their business.

You write as someone who understands buyer behaviour.

1. First Name - humour anchor - it makes the email feel directed, not broadcasted.
   Validity rules - only when you're confident it's correct.
   How to source this, go on websites, check their team or leadership pages, LinkedIn.
   Strong v Weak - strong here is correct and simple, Weak is you guess the wrong person or you use their nickname.
2. Company Name - meaning the entity you're addressing, it anchors the message.
   Validity Rules - use the brand name they use publicly.
